

EURASIAN GESTALT COACHING PROGRAM in istanbul

2010 – 2011

The Eurasian Gestalt Coaching Program in Istanbul, an ICF Accredited Coach Training Hours provider, is a Gestalt-based approach to coaching that incorporates cutting-edge coaching theories from thought leaders worldwide. This program is founded on core Gestalt values which hold that it is the awareness of self and others, in the context of aware possibilities, that support choice for intervention and success. A core gestalt coaching belief is that it is the nature of the coach's support and presence which assists the client to do the desired work in service of goals that are achievable, believable, concrete and deliverable.

The program is designed to teach the theory and practice of coaching leadership and management using a Gestalt theoretical and conceptual orientation. Coaching theory, concept, method, and technique from the fields of Gestalt theory, concepts and practices will shape the program curricula. Participants will develop a practice of ongoing assessment, practice coaching, and receive feedback and guidance in the coaching behaviors needed for individual, organizational and executive coaching engagements. This program will be targeted to support effective coaching interventions with individuals, groups, and complex systems. Participants will also learn to design their coaching practice to stimulate learning, development, creativity, intentional and transformational change.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Organizational coaching demands integration of coaching knowledge applied to organizational contexts. Complexities integral to these organizational contexts pose important challenges for those who wish to be competent and engaged in organization-based coaching practices. This advanced coach certification program is intended for consultants and coach practitioners who seek to deepen their knowledge and skills in executive and organization-based coaching.

This training is offered in a two-session format, both involving theory and practice, with each session lasting 3 ½ days. We will focus on the core areas of organization-based practice: performance coaching, executive coaching and applied business coaching strategies. We will provide participants with:

- The strategies and tools of performance and executive coaching, three-tiered assessments (self, other, culture), and the blending of normative and descriptive assessments (instrumented coaching), amplified by the use of on-site, real-time coaching processes (observational coaching).
- The strategies and tools of business coaching, with an emphasis on tools for multi-tiered assessment of performance (performance assessment coaching), multidimensional strategic planning (strategic planning coaching), and multi-option cost-benefit analyses (cost-benefit coaching).

WHO SHOULD APPLY

This training program is intended for internal and external consultants, organizational leaders, team leaders, and those interested in entering the organizational coaching field. An undergraduate degree is a pre-requisite.

The program aims for both the immediate and ongoing development and refinement of organizational coaching skills and knowledge, while also introducing participants to emerging tools, concepts, and roles in the field. Ideally, members of this learning community will participate in co-creating a broader network that supports the wide diversity of executive and organization coaches and consultants and their contextual challenges.

CERTIFICATION

Upon satisfactory completion of this advanced training, a participant will be awarded a Certificate of Completion in Executive and Organizational Coaching from the Professional School of Psychology. ICF CEEUs to support the ICF coaching community in Istanbul are available.

PRIMARY PROGRAM FACILITATORS

Dorothy E. Siminovitch, PhD, MCC, principal of Gestalt Coaching Works, is a Master Certified Coach and consultant to organizational leaders, executives, and groups worldwide. She is a faculty member of the Professional School of Psychology in California, and co-owner and faculty of the Eurasian Gestalt Coaching Program (EGCP) in Istanbul. She co-founded the International Gestalt Coaching Program (IGCP), the first Gestalt-based coach training program awarded International Coach Federation (ICF) certification. EGCP in Istanbul is the second Gestalt-based coach training program to gain ICF certification. Dorothy received her doctorate from Case Western Reserve University's prestigious Department of Organizational Behavior. Her Gestalt institutional affiliation is with the Gestalt International Study Center based in Wellfleet, MA. She presents training and development opportunities at the Organization Development Network annual conferences, International Coach Federation conferences, and by invitation.

William H. Bergquist, PhD, has offered professional coaching services for more than 45 years. Author of 45 books and 50 articles, Bill continues to be interested in the dynamics of profound individual, group, organizational, and societal transformations. He has coached and consulted with corporate, human service, educational, and religious organizations throughout North America, Europe, Africa, and Asia, and has offered advanced coach training programs throughout North America and Asia. Having served as President of The Professional School of Psychology (PSP) for the past 24 years, Bill is now concentrating on building a distinctive doctoral tutorial program at PSP that blends intensive in-person meetings with dynamic virtual at-a-distance interactions that involve senior tutors and mature, accomplished students. With John Lazar, Bill co-founded and serves as co-executive editor of the International Journal of Coaching in Organizations. He is also a co-founder of the International Consortium for Coaching in Organizations and the Library of Professional Coaching (LPC). Bill has recently established a consulting firm with four colleagues that specializes in unique and powerful tools for program design and team management.
